PARADOR

living performance

Art of living meets perfor- mance demand

For us, the art of living is an appreciation of beauty and to create inspiration out of it at any moment in time.

Performance is a permanent feature of our life. Day after day, we demand performance. Delivering daily performance requires solid ground beneath our feet.

PARADOR

Philosophy

We have developed a value compass that guides us through all our decisions. It determines how Parador acts and gives what we do a sense of reliability. This applies to our company and our products, through which our inner attitude is expressed: we live for products that make any home the most beautiful home in the world. Attention to detail, inventiveness and a willingness to develop go hand in hand with our products. We work every day to delight demanding customers.

Inspiration

Many people love and feel the inspiration behind products. That is why we expand energy and commitment to create new possibilities and realise convincing products. Developments from architecture and interior design that provide impetus, a feel for trends, stimuli from lifestyle, hand-craft and art repeatedly inspire our product developers and designers to come up with new ideas. This is how creative design, installation patterns and finishes emerge, which allow our products to become trendsetters in flooring design.

Design

Design is an expression of personality: it places the focus on the person and his ideas. Fine timbers in attractive finishes offer a wide spectrum of colours and textural nuances and open up an unlimited variety of design with uncompromising production perfection. Our internal design team and the collaboration with outstanding personalities from the international design scene are a guarantee of this scope. The result is convincing and unusual products that underline Parador's claim as a creative leader.

Quality

Parador engineered wood flooring is premium quality in all areas. Our experience provides the foundation for this and is combined with the demand to constantly develop our expertise. Customers can tell the quality of our engineered wood floors by their perfect surface treatments, the transitions from plank to plank, the click connection, the simple installation method and their low swell and shrinkage properties. The selection of timbers, drying processes, leading technological production and the correct way to handle wood, marks the quality of Parador »Made in Austria«.

Materiality

Wood is a living material and changes over time; every tree is unique, every plank a unique specimen. By using this knowledge, and by using different formats, assortments and surface treatments, an attractive product range has emerged at Parador. Yet for us, wood doesn't only play a decisive role in terms of looks; we also use wood exclusively in the 3-layer sandwich composition. Consequently, we use home-grown spruce / fir for the middle layer which is specially processed so that only standing annual rings can be found to withstand the highest stresses. The balancing layer is also made of spruce produced using the hulling process which therefore saves resources.

Technology

Parador real wood floors are impressive due to a large choice of individual design options, outstanding quality and intelligent technology. Special click mechanisms make awkward tools unnecessary and the floor installation particularly easy and stable, whether floating or completely glued. At the same time, the lamella and top layer impregnation carried out at the factory protects against damp; the product composition in three layers leads to higher dimensional stability. The top layer made exclusively of solid wood and combined with high quality surface finishes, guarantees that the products retain their value for a long time.

Health in the home

Parador engineered wood floors are low on emissions and allergens and ensure pleasant indoor conditions. We are happy to demonstrate this by only using materials that are healthy for the home. Test certificates issued by TÜV, the LGA and Blue Angel give our customers the required peace of mind. Furthermore, wood has a regulating effect on the indoor climate, has a long life cycle and can be renovated numerous times and easily cleaned, making it perfectly suitable for households with pets, children and allergy sufferers.

Sustainability

As a wood processing company, we hold our environment in the highest esteem. For us, living with a certain quality standard in the present must go hand in hand with responsibility to conserve the planet. We stand up to this responsibility with products that set standards in terms of ecology with the materials used, their processing, production, packaging and logistics. What is more, we have been actively committed to conserving the environment for years.

Product Lines

Parador creates flooring ranges that are as discerning and individual as the people who live with them. That is why the Parador assortment also offers a large selection of widely different products.

Basic

All Basic engineered wood floors feature the fundamental properties of real wood. With their sturdy finishing, the different looks and selected timbers, these engineered wood floors are a good choice for individual furnishing from the outset.

Classic

The Classic collection stands for timeless elegance and demonstrates that even classics can always be reinterpreted. With their natural beauty, regardless of fashion, the floors from this collection offer a long-term, stable basis for exclusive furnishing in harmony with various styles, from classic to modern.

Eco Balance

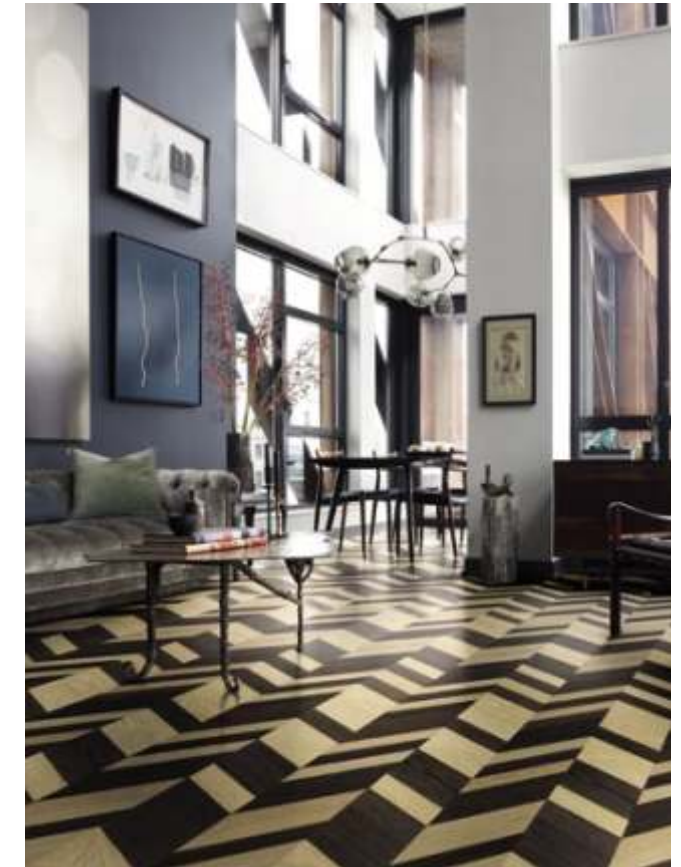

Eco Balance brings ecology and style into perfect harmony and takes account of our growing responsibility towards the environment. Sustainable production methods and a particularly conservational approach to wood as a natural material is proof of our claim to produce environmentally sustainable and natural floors.

Trendtime

With its broad spectrum, our Trendtime line is aimed at demanding customers who value modern flooring design. In this respect, Trendtime engineered wood floors combine perfect quality with fashion-conscious colors, different formats and patterns, and unusual finishes.

Edition

Edition by Parador stands for excellent furnishing that creates value in a freely stylistic and unusual manner. Created by top, reputable designers, this collection offers an exclusive selection of inimitable real wood floors – for individuality at the highest level.

More than a surface

Textures

Brushed, sawn and hand-finished surface textures underline the authentic character of wood as a natural material.

Surface texture

Handscraped

Specialists finish every single plank individually by hand with traditional craftsmanship. During the production of Parador »handscraped«, manual planing gives the floor a very original, authentic character.

Elephant skin

Wood features like grains, knots and cracks are treated by the craftsman and presented in detail. The hand-made »Elephant Skin« surface thus reinforces the unique character of each plank. The result is an aged and almost historic-looking floor.

Sawn texture

Based on the finishing of wood using hand tools, before planing and sanding machines were invented and beams and boards were installed in a freshly sawn condition, we have used intelligent technology to replicate this sawn look. The irregularity of the saw marks running at right angles to the grain characterises this traditional, archaic design.

Handscraped

Brushed

Finishing the wood surface with stainless steel brushes intensifies the natural grain of the wood. The wood texture is not only visible but also provides an authentic feel.

Wavescraped

Inspired by the power of water which shapes coasts, cliffs and driftwood, we have developed the Wavescraped surface, which brings irregular and shallow recesses to the wood, similar to the marks left by a wave on the beach. A visible and tangible experience.

Setting standards. Practising responsibility.

As a traditional wood processing company, we are aware of our particular responsibility for the environment and towards handling the nature in a sustainable manner. Active reforestation and innovative product chains characterise the production at Parador. Using our expertise we can offer real wood from sustainably managed forests and monitored sources of supply. Our products are regularly tested by independent institutes for their environmental impact and have been found to be good. In order to meet our high ecological and quality standards, we only develop and produce them in Germany and Austria. In this way we ensure that Parador engineered wood floors not only meet our quality and sustainability claims all along the line, but in terms of work conditions too, Parador produces in a fair and just manner.

Parador also supports the Plant-for-the-Planet initiative, which sends a signal for climate justice worldwide through tree-planting actions. Parador sponsors the numerous children's academies, where young participants are trained to become ambassadors for climate protection.

Real wood floors increase the value of living areas in a visible manner. The natural material wood gives every room a sense of warmth and homeliness and provides the ideal basis for tasteful, style-conscious furnishing. Engineered and solid wood flooring from Parador allow plenty of ways of setting out your own individual furnishing style starting with the floor. And with the Classic, Trendtime and Edition collections, ideas of timeless elegance as well as preferences for modern, design-oriented furnishing can be turned into reality.

High quality surface treatments contribute to a natural radiance and protect against wear. Selected products with brushed, sawn & hand finished surface textures underline the authentic character of the natural material wood. Be they traditional or fashion-conscious-all Parador floors are timeless in their quality standard.
